IS TAKEN TODAY

FRENCH GOVERNMENT HAS STRIKE SITUATION WELL IN HAND THIS AFTERNOON.

LEADERS ARE ARRESTED

Premier Briand Says That Troops Will Be Used If Necessary—Reserv-

ist Forces Called Out.
Paris, Oct. 13.—The French government is meeting the situation resulting from the general strike of railroad employees with a firmness and promptness that may defeat the aims of the agitators.

This morning five of the most influential strike leaders were arrested and Premier Briand intends they shall be punished.

He insists the agitators precipitated the insurrectionary movement at the very hour when negotiations looking to peaceful adjustment of differences between the railroads and employees were about to meet with success.

The mobilization of the railroad reservists decreed by the government in proceeding. Men have responded in large numbers but as yet have not been ordered to take up the work of the strikers.

As a result of the strikes it is today predicted that not a train will be running in the republic by night.
Serious disorders and rioting continue today.

TWO EDGERTON BOYS
SENT TO GREEN BAY
BY MADISON JUDGE

Must Serve Eighteen Months For Robbing Companion on Tuesday Night Last.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton, Oct. 13.—Ralph Harrison, aged 19, and Paul Stankovic, aged 22, of this city, who held up and robbed their companion, Fred Sherman, aged 20, in a box car west Wednesday morning, pleaded guilty to the crime
in the municipal court at Madison
this morning and were sentenced eighteen months in the state reformatory at Green Bay.

In sentencing them Judge Donavan stated that if they followed the rules of the institution they would seek a pardon or parole for them at the end of their first year. The scene in the court room was pitiful as the boys moaned and wept and all wept
pitifully when the sentence was made.
The story of the hold-up as told by Sherman upon his return to this city
this afternoon is as follows:

Harrison, Stankovic and Sherman went to Janesville Tuesday night on the train that gets there about 8 o'clock.
Sherman had $20.00 with him as he had intended to buy an overcoat in Janesville, thinking that the stores
were open there on Tuesday night.
They all planned to come back to Edgerton on a freight that leaves Janesville about midnight, so Sherman left the other two fellows to call on friends with the agreement that they would meet at the depot later.

When Sherman got back to the depot the other two fellows were there waiting for him. He stepped into the C. M. & S. P. depot to speak to a friend and some time later as a freight was pulling by was told by his two friends that it was their train so all jumped into a box car, Sherman thinking that he was going back to Edgerton, but instead they got on a
C. & N. W. freight bound for Madison.
Sherman says that after they had gone a few miles he thought they were on the wrong train, and asked his friends about it, but was assured by them that it was all right. But as the train pulled into Evansville Sherman saw that he had been fooled and said he was going to stay in Evansville until morning but was coaxed by his companions to stay in the car and go to Madison and return to Edgerton from there on an early passenger train.

Some time after the train had left Evansville while all three were sitting in one end of the car smoking, Stankovic and Harrison jumped on Sherman and the three began to struggle.
Sherman succeeded in getting Harrison's arm over his mouth and nose, making it impossible for Sherman to breathe and Stankovic busied himself going through Sherman's clothes until he found the $20.00. Sherman says he kept getting fainter and heard Stankovic
tell Harrison to give him a little air
as he was getting black in the face.

After the money had been taken from Sherman he was released and asked if he would acquit. He would promise nothing so his comrades planned to throw him out of the car door, but this plan was blocked because they could not get the car door open. Sherman says they then threatened to kill him. He told Stankovic and Harrison that if they would return his $20.00 he would say nothing about the affair but was promptly knocked down

for his suggestion.

By this time the train was nearing Madison, and when Sherman had got his bearing he made a run for the door of the car and succeeded in getting out of the car before his companions realized it. They however, immediately followed him and gave chase. Sherman ran over several box cars and rode on the bumpers between two, until the train slowed down sufficiently for him to get off, which he did and promptly notified an officer he saw about a block distant in Port Worth, Tex., Oct. 13.—The Interstate Commerce Commission, represented by Judge Gerry, began a hearing here today in the complaint of the Texas Brewing company against the Santa Fe and other railroads, in which the brewing company is seeking a reduction in the freight rates on barley. It is stated that the reduction, if granted, would mean a saving of about $100,000 a year to the brewers of the United States.

BANKERS' MEETING HERE OCTOBER 26

GROUP FIVE OF WISCONSIN BANKERS' ASSOCIATION TO HOLD IMPORTANT GATHERING

GEO. M. REYNOLDS SPEAKS

Is President of the Biggest Bank in the West and Ex-President of the American Bankers' Association.

What promises to be one of the most interesting, as well as important, sessions of the Group No. Five of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association, is to be held in Janesville on Wednesday, October 26. The session is to be held at the Elks' lodge rooms and the banquet in the evening which closes the gathering, will be held in Myers hotel.

Group Five of the Wisconsin association is one of the largest in the state. C. R. Carpenter of Racine is president; W. H. Sleep of Waukesha is vice-president; Charles Hawks of Horicon, secretary and treasurer, and George L. Pullen of Evansville and S. M. Smith of Janesville members of the executive committee.

Among the speakers at the afternoon session is Hon. George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, the second largest banking house in the United States and the largest outside New York City. Mr. Reynolds is a recognized power among the bankers of the United States and has served as president of the American Bankers' association.

The committee having charge of the program placed Mr. Reynolds on the list of afternoon speakers and it is expected many others, aside from members, will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing his talk. The local committee are much pleased at having Mr. Reynolds accept their invitation as he is a dual speaker and his presence here will add to the interest of the gathering.

The Elks' lodge has also extended the bankers the use of their parlors and reading rooms during the session. The opening session comes at 10:30 when President Carpenter will call the meeting to order. Mayor W. P. Carlo, in behalf of the city of Janesville will then give an address of welcome followed by a similar address from the Janesville Bankers by W. S. Jeffris. For the visiting bankers C. C. Brown of Kenosha, president of the Wisconsin Bankers' association will respond.

The remainder of the morning program is as follows:

Roll Call—To be responded to by answering the question "Why am I here," by story or song or otherwise.
Annual Address of Group President—C. R. Carpenter, Racine.
Report of Secretary and Treasurer—Charles Hawks, Horicon.

Appointment of Committees on Nominations and Resolutions.
Banquet—Geo. D. Bartlett, Secretary Wisconsin Association.

Snap Shots of Los Angeles Convention—L. A. McWhinney, Cashier Citizens Bank, Clinton.

Immediately following the luncheon hour automobiles furnished by the Industrial and Commercial club will be at the disposal of those of the visitors who desire to take a trip around the city. The afternoon session will be called to order at 2:30 with the following program arranged for:

"The Banker From the Lawyer's Standpoint"—R. M. Richmond, Attorney for Bank of Evansville.

"The Banker in Municipal Affairs—What It Did to Me"—B. G. Edgerton, Cashier Bank of Oconomowoc.

"Joint Savings Accounts and Certificates"—Wm. A. Jackson, Vice-president Fidelity Trust Co., Milwaukee.

"The Community and the Banker"—A. P. Lovejoy, President Janesville Industrial-Commercial Club.

RAILS LIFTED THE ENGINE OFF TRACK

Wreck at Shopiere Yesterday Caused by Engine 1346 Striking "Dumpy" Loaded With Rails.

Engine 1346, northbound from Chicago, running light, struck a "dumpy" on which section hands had loaded some rails and left the tracks at Shopiere about half past ten o'clock yesterday morning. The engine left the Shopiere station just after 5:45 had passed and the section crew had started toward the station about the same time. The engineer did not see the dumper until it was too late to stop. The engine struck the dumper and was going at a good rate of speed when it hit the car. The dumper was smashed and the rails lifted the engine off the track. The rails were torn up for about seven rail lengths. The Chicago wreckers were sent for and Foreman George Reed and crew from the South Janesville yards went down to assist in placing the engine back on the track. The tank was placed back on the tender and the engine lifted up by the derrick on the wrecking car, while a temporary track was built under the engine. The locomotive was backed onto the main line and the work of repairing the damage to the main line was started and completed about six o'clock. The accident caused the blocking of all traffic north and south and trains that usually pass through Shopiere were sent around by way of Afton.

Engine 1346, which figured in the wreck yesterday is in the house for repairs.

Mechanics Helper Will Sullivan, is laying off today.

Engine 1724 has been turned over to the Madison division for service.

Engine 151, a Class E passenger locomotive, came up from Chicago this morning and has been turned over to the Madison division for service.

Engine 1723, which came up from Chicago for service on the Wisconsin division is in for house repairs.

GOOD WORK DONE BY THE WORKMEN IN ROUNDHOUSE

Engine 126, which has been repaired and overhauled a fine specimen of the work done.

Engine 126, which has been in the house for repairs has been sent out and is a splendid specimen of the high class work done by the workmen in the roundhouse. The appearance of the engine has been improved by repainting it and the machinery is again in perfect working order, having been given a general overhauling and light repainting.

The work of repainting on the engine to the coal chutes is nearing completion. Now crosspieces and ties are being put in and the work is now almost done.

John Kelleher, laborer, laid off yesterday on account of sickness.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS ROSE CONNELL

Misses Rose and Elizabeth Gagan entertained Last Evening for Bride-to-be.

The Misses Rose and Elizabeth Gagan were the hostesses at a miscellaneous shower last evening at their home, 158 South Academy street. The guest of honor was Miss Rose Connell, who is soon to wed. Cards were a most pleasant diversion for the evening, and afterward a delicious luncheon was served. Miss Connell received many beautiful and useful gifts.

A BARLER IDEAL HEATER

Is a source of comfort, convenience and economy. How many times have chilly hours been endured while waiting for a coal fire to burn to the point of radiating heat? You cannot carry a coal stove from your dining room to your bedroom, but you can easily move a Barler Ideal Heater to any room, and when no more heat is wanted, shut it off at once.

MRS. E. G. HARLOW HAS PASSED AWAY

Death Came This Afternoon at One Thirty—Has Died Janesville Her Home During Married Life.

At one thirty this afternoon, the spirit of Mrs. Emma Canfield Harlow passed to her world beyond after a long and painful illness. Mrs. Harlow was one of Janesville's pioneers and during her long residence here has been beloved by friends and acquaintances. A true Christian woman, in both church and home she has proven a true counselor and earnest worker.

Mrs. Emma Canfield Harlow was born in Sacketts Harbor, New York, coming west with her husband, Mr. E. G. Harlow, in 1854 to Captain E. G. Harlow. She was a true Christian and prominent in church work until her failing health forbade it. She was a loving mother and leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two sons, E. H. Harlow of Richmond, California, and J. C. Harlow of this city. Three daughters, Mrs. J. J. Wenzel of New York City, Mrs. Frank Young of Madison and Mrs. Harry Garbutt of this city. The notice of the funeral will be given later.

RAILWAY VALUATION.

Senator Cummins of Iowa stated recently that the watered stock in American railroads represented the sum of $100,000,000, but he forgot to state another fact, which is more significant, that back of every dollar worth of stocks and bonds is more than a dollar's worth of property.

American railroads are largely the product of the last half century. They started at the bottom, with small capital, but have gone to the front by leaps and bounds until today they spread over the land like a spider web, touching every nook and corner, and representing more than 200,000 miles of track.

This rapid development has been in response to demands which have been created to large extent by the enterprise of these corporations in opening up new territory, and redeeming the waste places.

To meet these demands the capital stock of these companies has been quadrupled many times, and with each issue of what is commonly called watered stock, has gone a bond issue, and the money secured through the sale of stocks and bonds has been used for extensions and betterments.

Values have accumulated rapidly, as the country has developed, the same as farm values have increased for the same reason. Dakota land a few years ago could be bought for a song and Dakota railroads were run at a loss, and would have been abandoned had they not been a part of a great system.

Today the same land is worth $50 an acre and the value of railroad property has shared in general prosperity which it largely helped to develop.

The taxing of this kind of property has always been a perplexing question, and just now much is being said about physical valuation. This is more difficult to determine than it would be on any other class of property because of the intricate character of railway property, and because railroad taxes are state and not national.

The Pennsylvania railroad is about to open a terminal station in New York which cost $100,000,000, and the Chicago & Northwestern company is completing a terminal station in Chicago representing an investment of $20,000,000. These expensive properties add to the value of the most remote mile of trackage on these two great railway systems, because they add to the earning capacity of an industry which knows nothing about state boundary lines.

The rolling stock of these corporations is in one state today and another tomorrow, the property of no particular locality. The federal government is the only authority that can deal justly with this kind of property, on a physical valuation basis, and this states would not consent to. All property is worth what it will produce as an earner, and railway property is no exception to the rule. Just what part of these earnings should be demanded for taxes is a question which should be settled in fairness and equity to all concerned. An exchange offers the following suggestions, which are to the point:

"The pressure for a 'physical valuation' of railway property seems to have received a slight check by reason of its heavy cost. The expenditure of public money for some useless purpose is quite as often a source of joy to the professional agitator, however, as more routine economies in public administration. The 'physical valuation' facility will probably hold up again until it is actually carried out, at least experimentally, or until the country gets over its desire to hamper the railways."

"The strongest argument against physical valuation is its uselessness. It may be possible to get expert railway men to estimate the present market value of rolling stock, but when it comes to roadbed and terminals, market value depends so much upon profitable use that physical valuation throws little serious light on the subject."

"The true test of the value of property is its earning capacity, present and prospective. A physical valuation which ignored obvious prospects of great expansion in business would not even accomplish the ends of its advocates, which seem to be to put as low a value as possible on railway properties in order to find an excuse for reducing passenger and freight rates."

THE CAMPAIGN IN INDIANA.
Colonel Roosevelt is in Indiana doing all in his power to aid his friend, Senator Beveridge, to retain his seat in congress. The hard of the "Win-lush" long ago made Indiana famous and a little incident in Senator Beveridge's campaign has added a tinge of sentiment which is unique, and which may aid the senator in capturing the prize. An exchange tells the story as follows:

"Mary and the vine-clad cottage" is a phrase that has become a factor in the campaign. How account for it? Simply enough. Senator Beveridge, mounted, accompanied by a few of supporters, is riding through a village street. Mary, a village maiden, emerges from a vine-clad cottage and, in answer to an inquiry, is informed that it is Senator Beveridge who is passing by. Mary gives the senator one glance and one smile and hurriedly re-enters the vine-clad cottage, immediately while he is ringing up her telephone neighbors further down the road. The result becomes manifest at once. At every door women greet the passing senator with smiles and waving handkerchiefs.

"Paul Rovere did not perform his task more thoroughly than does Mary. She knows the whole countryside to the fact that Senator Beveridge is to be seen riding by, and the whole countryside exhibits its appreciation of Mary's thoughtfulness by giving the senator a graceful and hospitable reception."

"Mary and the vine-clad cottage" has become the theme of political speeches and political newspaper articles in Indiana already. It is likely to become the title of numerous poems, of songs, of books. It is quite possible that it will have a determining influence in the struggle for the senatorship. It will, at all events, throw a kinder light upon the campaign. It will neutralize with sentiment the bitterness of the contest. Henceforth and until the votes are counted in November Mary and the vine-clad cottage will give a softer tinge to the entire Indiana political situation.

"Everybody in the Hoosier state has a pleasant thought for Mary. Great is her modesty now in refusing to believe that she has done anything out of common."

THE CAUSE OF IT.

More towns die of want of confidence on the part of business men and lack of public spirit than any other cause, says a floating editorial. When a man in search of a home or a business location goes into a town and finds everything brim full of hope and enthusiasm of the prospects of the place and all earnestly at work to build it up, he soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, and as a result he drives down stakes and goes to work with the same interest. When, however, he goes to a town where everyone expresses doubt and apprehension for the future prosperity of the place, moping about, indulging in mournful complaints, he naturally feels that it is no place for him, and he at once shakes the dust from his feet while he pulls out with all possible speed for some other place.

It is an old saying that confidence inspires confidence and the sentiment applies to cities as well as to individuals. When everybody speaks well of a man, his reputation for honesty and morality is speedily established, and so of the city.

Janesville has long enjoyed an enviable reputation for stability and conservatism. Failures are so rare that credit men feel warranted in passing judgment on orders by glancing at the postmark.

An effort is being made just now to add to these valuable assets the virtue of enthusiasm and the disposition prevalent to larger extent than ever before to become boosters for the best little city in the land.

This is a commendable spirit and entitled to every encouragement. There is ample room for the city to grow and there is every reason why it should. Nature has richly endowed it and the panorama which greets the eye, from the surrounding hills, is a source of pleasure which never fails on the vision.

The transportation facilities are ample to accommodate all the industries that can be secured, and there is room for all the new homes that vigorous growth will demand.

Shall we grow?

State Senator Gaylord, the socialist representative from Milwaukee, expresses the opinion that when the government owns the railroads there will be no idle cars or idle men, but a continuous round of business and employment. Just how this vast property could be acquired was not stated. The country has developed rapidly under private ownership and enterprise.

According to Adolph Schmitz, the democratic candidate for governor, the present tariff commission is a farce. The personnel of the committee is all right, and a liberal appropriation is provided, but no authority is given to act and the report made to the President will be a blank. Mr. Schmitz is right in his analysis, and congress should remedy the defect at the earliest moment. The people will not tolerate this sort of nonsense, however gratifying it may be to New England manufacturers.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON. (Copyright, 1909, by George M. Adams.)

I walk through the streets of the city, as gay as a butterfly on a flower, I hear it singing a ditty of gladness and sunshine, and then I encounter some fellows—the heart music suddenly stops; for they lean on their green umbrellas, and talk of the weather and crops. I call at the home of a lady; my heart and my soul are at ease; I swallow some drinks lemonade, and pretzels, and fragments of cheese; I'm speaking of poets and weather—how suddenly the merry drops. For some time is springing statistics concerning the weather and crops. Attired in my modest alpaca, and collar of hyaline roll, I call at the store for tobacco, for smoke always comforts my soul; I light up my trusty old briar, when in come some chin-whiskered Pops; their voices rise higher and higher, discussing the weather and crops. Sometimes, when I contemplate dying, I feel a cold thrill of despair; I fear that the seraphim flying around in the ether up there, may weary of singing their choruses, and send their hurrahs back to the shops and all in a circle and leave me with talk of the weather and crops.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

The Nigger. The engagement for "The Nigger" at the Myers Theatre with Guy Bates Post in the leading role has been cancelled as the routing for this company has been changed. It is expected that the attraction will come to Janesville later in the season.

JANVRIN TO GO ON THE STAND

LATE THIS AFTERNOON AND TESTIFY IN OWN BEHALF.

CASE IN NEARING AN END

Testimony May Be Concluded and Arguments Commenced in Circuit Court Tomorrow Morning.

The trial of Frederick E. Janvrin of Deloit, charged with manslaughter, is nearing an end. The prosecution put Leon Pollock, J. W. Melnik, Dennis Lawler, Edward W. Houston, George Passare, F. H. Kopp, and Glenn Baldwin on the witness stand this forenoon and they rested. The customary motion for the discharge of the defendant was made and denied by the court.

Thirteen witnesses for the defense had been examined when a recess was declared at three o'clock this afternoon and there remained only one or two more and the defendant, himself, who was expected to take the stand last of all. Nearly all of those who testified for the defendant declared that a fight was in progress and that Janvrin was backing away from Hayes a good deal of the time up to the moment when he drew his revolver and began to fire. D. L. Green in the course of a merciless cross examination by Attorney O. A. Ostreich declared that Hayes walked eight or ten feet after he had been shot in both legs by Janvrin in order to fall on the east side of the internment tracks.

The witnesses for the defense were: J. L. Taylor, Ashley, William Butterworth, Jesse Lamphere, D. L. Green, Hugo Turner, shop foreman for the Internment Co., Leo Michele, express agent for the Internment at Roscoe, Thomas Moore, A. L. Dougherty, James H. Root, Frank Wilford, Miss Mayhew, and Charles Scories.

Expert Testimony. Four physicians who attended Hayes during his last hours were put on the stand by the prosecution late yesterday afternoon.

Dr. E. P. Brown, who attended the man after he was taken to the hospital, described the three wounds. There was one bullet wound above the right ankle; another in the fleshy part of the left thigh which cut the femoral vein and a slight incision over the left eye, apparently caused by Janvrin's cane. Dr. Brown's opinion, although he could not say that the victim had been using intoxicants that day, in the main he thought the man's serious physical condition the night before his death was caused by the bullet wounds.

Not Necessarily the Cause. Dr. Charles E. Smith, gave a minute description of the wounds and treatment. The heart action and circulation were improved, he said, after Hayes emerged from the influence of the anesthetic. Hayes was in a delirium and talking loudly and incoherently when the witness first saw him. He thought that Hayes' death was largely due to the wounds, though the habit use of strong drink might have been a contributing factor.

During the cross examination he said that the bullet wounds were not necessarily the cause of death, and this admission was regarded as a point scored for the defense.

Did Not Expect Death. Dr. A. C. Helm, who has been the Hayes family physician at various times, described the findings of the autopsy which he and Dr. Delaney held over the remains. The brain, stomach, kidneys, and liver were all in normal condition, he said. A shock such as the victim must have suffered from the wound in his right leg might have caused delirium. Extensive bleeding from the femoral vein of the left thigh was, in his opinion, largely responsible for the man's death. He is conducting the examination for the state and prepared a long hypothetical question pertaining to the wounds, the manner in which they must have been inflicted, the hemorrhages, the treatment given, and the direct and principal cause of the man's death. In answer to this question witness said he had no opinion as to the direct cause of Hayes' death. It was a surprise to him the next morning to learn that the patient had ceased to live. He said on cross examination that his experience did not teach him to expect such wounds to produce death in so short a time. The chances for recovery, he would have said, were fifty per cent.

Hope to Finish This Week. Dr. H. O. Delaney's testimony was similar to that of Dr. Helm. Witness thought that the shock might have caused delirium.

Grover Webber, employed at the Moss wholesale grocery store in Helolt and a witness of the encounter, gave his version of the tragedy. He had just returned from Janesville on an interurban car. His testimony was similar to that of some of the other witnesses.

Louisa Jones, employed at the States-Marchen brass factory in South Deloit was the fourteenth and last witness to be examined yesterday. He witnessed the shooting and was able to give a coherent and convincing account of all that took place.

Judge Grimm is very anxious to have the case completed this week so as not to keep the jury over Sunday. For this reason the trial was in progress until 5:15 last evening, and was resumed at nine o'clock this morning. The jury is being housed and boarded at the Hotel Myers.

Purchase Woods Flats. Franklin V. Dolson has purchased the Woods flats on the corner of Court and South bluff streets from Dr. E. P. Woods and wife. The consideration is not known but is in the neighborhood of $20,000.

If You Were Building A House You Wouldn't Tear Shingles Off You'd Put Shingles On

There are more men in this city who are putting shingles on than taking them off—to which class do YOU belong?

You know that anything you do towards helping (through regular trade channels) any Janesville industry is putting a shingle on your house and NOT TEARING ONE OFF YOURS OR YOUR NEIGHBOR'S.

Any man who does not buy home cigars is not only depriving home labor of work, but is hurting his own business to a very great extent.

Each Monday and Thursday evening a space will be devoted in this paper to an article dealing with the growth of the local cigar industry and its consequent value to Janesville.

Articles will appear each week on subjects with which you probably are not familiar, but with which you should be thoroughly conversant.

You'll find the articles all interesting. Read them.

BURGLARS IN THE HIGH SCHOOL AND PUBLIC LIBRARY

Night Prowlers Also Tried to Get Into Homes of A. C. Thorpe and Dr. W. H. Judd.

Burglars broke into the high school and public library buildings last evening and were frightened away from the homes of A. C. Thorpe, 228 Milton avenue, and Dr. W. H. Judd, 514 E. Lawrence avenue, after they had raised a hue and cry in the windows of each abode and traversed the occupants. They got less than a dollar at the high school and nothing of value at the library, but they did considerable damage in each instance.

At the High School. A west window opening into Miss Mount's room in the high school building was pried up with a chisel or jimmy and the inner door opened with a master key, No. 19. The intruders, however, failed in their efforts to unlock one of the doors leading into Supt. Thell's office with the master key and were unable to extricate it from the lock. After battering at this portal for a while they found their way in by some other route.

Smashed Glass at Library. Instead of attempting a basement window at the library, the "highlanded" thieves chose one of the upper tier in the rear and how they worked there without ladder or timber is a mystery. A section of glass in one of the sashes was knocked out with a single blow, enabling the burglars to clamber through and fasten the lock. There are evidences to show that a systematic, if unsuccessful, search was made for money but the papers were not scattered out at the high school.

Trail of Wedding? Mrs. A. C. Thorpe had left a quantity of silver which had been in use at the festive incident to the Powell-Madden wedding next door on her dining room table. Several out of town guests at the wedding were lodged at her home overnight and Mr. Thorpe was occupying a room upstairs. Just before daylight Mrs. Thorpe was awakened by several little flashes of light which seemed to come from the living room into which her bedroom opened. Thinking that someone was lighting matches out there, she got up and went out to investigate. She found nothing to confirm her alarms and she presently returned to bed, satisfied that everything was as it should be. This morning Mr. Thorpe found one of the sashes of the bay window wide open.

Awakened Mrs. Judd. Mrs. W. H. Judd was awakened at half past three o'clock this morning by sounds of a window going up. She found that both a window sash and screen had been raised but heard no further sounds. Loose earth which had been scattered over the lawn this morning revealed the footprints of a small, pointed shoe just under the window.

Hoodlums Also Abroad. A band of young hoodlums gathered about the Powell home right after midnight last evening and their racket seriously marred the impressiveness of the wedding ceremony. It was necessary to send for Officer Slim Dorn to scatter them.

Willis F. Gross, Christian Science Lecturer,

Friday Evening at Opera House.

Mr. Willis F. Gross, C. S. B., a leading Christian Scientist and an official lecturer of that denomination, will speak at the Opera House Friday evening. Mr. Gross has for many years been a successful practitioner of Christian Science, thus knowing by actual demonstration or proof that it will save men from sin and sickness.

He has also been actively interested in the work of the Publishing Society in Boston for more than ten years and a valued contributor to its periodicals. Having had this varied experience he is able to speak the truth about Christian Science, which is the object of the Board of Lecturership of which Mr. Gross is a member. All are invited to hear his lecture. It is free.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Look for the hand made head spread in Bowditch & Son's window. Tickets sold on H. Saturday, October 15.

There will be a dance given by the Imperial Band, Monday, Oct. 17, at Assembly hall. Music will be furnished by both the Imperial Band and the 75c per couple. Don't forget the day and date.

Shall Janesville's Streets Be Effectively Lighted?

ONE of the modern ways of municipal advertising is effective street lighting. Well lighted streets attract strangers. They give to the city a "Push and Hustle" appearance not found in many cities in the country. Well lighted streets bring people down town in the evening. Well lighted streets in Janesville will attract retail business from surrounding towns because of the prestige it gives to the city. Visitors in Janesville will leave the city with a feeling that it is a "Coming" city and would talk it to others.

Gas Light Is Of Course the Most Efficient For Street Lighting

The Welsbach Outdoor Multi-Flex Inverted Lamps give the most light for the least money. They are now being used effectively in the following cities and others too numerous to mention:

Berlin, Germany	Chicago, Ill.	St. Louis, Mo.	Woodbury, N. J.	Philadelphia, Pa.
Atlantic City, N. J.	Washington, D. C.	Chattanooga, Tenn.	Cape May City, N. J.
East St. Louis, Ill.	Brooklyn, N. Y.	New York City, N. Y.

The New Gas Light Co. will keep the lights burning every night in the year in the hottest weather and in the coldest weather. Not once in the past decade have the lights "GONE OUT" or refused to light when needed. The New Gas Light Co. will keep their lights above 500 candle power and the efficiency will not diminish. The Patrol service will include a guarantee of this high candle power at all times; and the lights will be inspected twice a day and all lamps will be turned on and off at stated hours.

The New Gas Light Co. can and will furnish ornamental posts as handsome in appearance as any street lighting post now on the market. The New Gas Light company will furnish figures for cost of installation and maintenance lower than any figures yet furnished, and will give a better light and more of it, a steadier light and a whiter light than can be furnished through by any service.

COMMON SENSE CURE

FOR RHEUMATISM.

Rheumatism has for ages been a puzzle to the doctors. Some claim it to be an infection, a germ disease.
Others claim that the cause is uric acid, a kidney disease. It is said that uric acid is carried by the blood into the small appendages of the joints and skin where it crystallizes and it is the small, sharp crystals that cause the terrible pain with every motion of the body by cutting into the flesh and nerves. Whatever the cause, the best relief known is an Alladin Elixir of the Sallayates. The chemical nature of the Sallayates is to form soluble compounds with the urates. In this way these crystals are dissolved, taken up by the blood and taken out of the body by the kidneys.This rheumatic elixir is taken in teaspoonful doses in hot water before meals. The cure is often in a day or two, yet the remedy should be taken for some time to thoroughly neutralize the blood and prevent a recurrence of the trouble. The eliminations, as the doctors would say, is the kidneys and the bowels, should be kept active. Rheumatic Elixir is compounded by Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, who would be pleased to give you any other information you wish. Sold at 50c. Hager

A HAPPY SOLUTIONAudience That Witnessed the Lottery
Man at Myers Theatre Last Evening
Enjoyed Clever Comedy.Theatergoers want to be amused.
They want to laugh, to watch the development of a plot, catch the lines of the actor, and laugh at the climax. In the Lottery Man which appeared at the Myers theatre last evening they had this opportunity.It was a clever and entertaining comedy which contained a good story and plenty of humorous lines and situations.
It is one of Miss Rita Johnson
Young's best efforts and when it is remembered that Brown of Harvard is one of her productions the excellence of last night's play is unquestioned.The story centers about the desperate efforts of Jack Wright who is "on the rocks," to meet his obligations to his friends Foxey, Poyton, a newspaper man. He fails to get the money and so has to furnish the alternative,
a seamy for Foxey's paper. He conceives of the novel plan of running a lottery with himself as the prize. It creates a big sensation but unfortunately Jack falls in love with a very attractive lady, a cousin of Foxey's. He invests heavily in lottery tickets in Miss Helen's name in the hopes that she may be the lucky winner. But the winner turns out to be Lizzie Roberts, a most unattractive, peculiar, homely, "old maid," who is a resigned martyr to Mrs. Poyton's beauty whims. It is finally proven that Lizzie came by her ticket dishonestly and everything ends happily.Lizzie furnishes plenty of amusement and her part was admirably taken by Carolyn Lee. Joseph Yuner took the part of the Lottery Man
well and other members of the cast came in for their due share of praise.
A good sized and appreciative audience witnessed the evening performance,
while a mere handful was present at the afternoon matinee.BUMPER CROPS AT THE COUNTY FARMYield of Oats and Barley Larger Than In Former Years and Grain is of Extra Good Quality.Harvest work on the bumper crop of grain, raised this year on sixty-eight acres of land at the county farm, was completed this morning. Threshers have been at work for a day or so past threshing the crop which is of extra good quality and considering the long drought of the past summer is a bumper crop. According to Superintendent D. M. Burlingame, forty-one hundred bushels in all, of oats and barley,
were raised this year, the oats averaging forty-five bushels and the barley, sixty bushels to the acre. The amount raised is greater than in previous years and there is a large quantity of straw left from the threshing.FIFTY GUESTS AT AUTUMN WEDDINGMiss Jean Powell and Paul E. Madgen
United Under Happy Auspices
Last Evening.At an altar improvised for the occasion in the bay window of the living room of the George Powell home on Milton avenue, the marriage ceremony
for Miss Jean Powell and Paul E.
Madgen of Minneapolis was performed by Rev. John McKinney at six o'clock last evening. The residence was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers and ferns. George Hinch as harpist played the Lohengrin waltz.
Miss Jean, Miss Fern, Misses of Chicago was ring bearer. The bride was attired in a gown of white moss-line and carried white beaded roses.An elaborate wedding supper was served to fifty guests, following the brief reception. Later in the evening the happy couple took their departure for Minneapolis which is to be their future home and where the groom is manager of the Acme Tea Co.Among the out of town guests were:
Miss Murphy of Watertown, Miss
Kathleen Gunther of Knoxville, Wis., Miss Anita Mahr of Dodgeville, Mrs.
Malka and Miss Malka of Chicago,
Mrs. Stowe of Fond du Lac, Mrs. E.
A. Hubard of Milwaukee, and Rose

Mrs. Horwood, president of the local
W. C. T. U., has just returned from Wausau where the state convention was held Oct. 7-9-10. The session proved a most successful one, 238
local unions paid dues for the past year which is a net gain of 42.Rock County has made the largest gain in membership, Janesville, being the banner Union of the county. The dry city of Stoughton has the largest Union in the state.Mrs. W. A. Lawson of Milwaukee was elected president with an almost unanimous vote. A strong effort will be made to have the National Convention at Milwaukee in 1911.Prominent among the speakers were the Rev. Olympia Brown of Racine and Dr. Samuel Dickie, president of Albion College, Mich., who gave a very satisfying address on the liquor traffic.
All parts of the state were well represented and were delighted and entertained by the people of Wausau.STATE ARCHITECT about one hundred and twenty-five present at the annual supper and business meeting of the Congregational society which was held in the church last evening. A very nice supper was served at 6:30 o'clock after which all listened to the reading of the annual reports. The officers of the previous year were all unanimously re-elected.

Rev. D. C. Grubb gave a talk and Mrs. Grubb who attended a subordinary convention at Milwaukee, Wis., gave an interesting report of that gathering. Dr. Wilson of Park City, Utah, also talked for a short time.About thirty neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gibbs gave them a pleasant surprise at their home on North Main St., Monday evening. Mr. Gibbs and family expect to move into their new residence which they have been building on Main St. next week. The friends gathered for a farewell visit before they leave that neighborhood.
A delightful evening was spent with music and games. A supper was served at eleven o'clock and before departing the guests presented Mrs.
Gibbs with a beautiful cut glass beer
key bowl.Don Knause left yesterday morning for Ohio having been called there by the death of his brother-in-law, Mr.

three weeks ago. He was born fifty-three years ago in Lebanon, O., and had been on the supreme bench ten years. His death has created considerable confusion in the political situation, as he was renominated for justice by the Democrats. He was considered a tower of strength to the ticket.

Not Yet.

There is a belief among many people that if a person breaks a lookingglass he or she will die within 60 days. Last winter in Duluth, Thomas Swift, a boy of 14, caused a team of horses to run away. They were drawing a wagon loaded with 60 looking-glasses, big and little. Forty of them were broken, and yet Tommy is alive and looking today. It takes more than the breaking of a looking-glass to carry the average boy off. Someone can't be killed even when a ton rock falls on them.

Not in Haste.

A clergyman in the north of Scotland, very homely in his address, chose for his text a passage in the Psalms, "I said in my haste; all men are liars." "Ay," pretended the minister by way of introduction, "ye said it in your haste, David, did ye?" "O ye had been here ye might ha' said it
at your leisure, my man."

Danderine

Grows Hair
and we can PROVE IT!

The Great DANDERINE Never Fails to Produce the Desired Results.

It enlivens and invigorates the hair,
glands and tissues of the scalp,
resulting in a continuous and increasing growth of the hair.

Letters of praise are continually coming in from every all parts of the country stating that Danderine has renewed the growth of hair in cases that were considered absolutely hopeless.

A lady from Jackson, Wis., writes:
"After a short trial my hair stopped falling, and I now have a lovely head of hair, very heavy and even and a country lady's hair."

Danderine stimulates the scalp,
makes it healthy and keeps it so.
It is the greatest scalp invigorator known. It is a wholesome medicine for both the hair and scalp. Even a small bottle of it will put more genuine life in your hair than a gallon of any other hair tonic ever made.
It shows results from the very start.

Final Aim.
The main reason why men are so quickly swept off their feet by passion, why gambling and lust and drink are so strong, is because God has not been chosen as the final aim of life to turn a standing check upon the tiger and the ape in the menagerie of the soul.—Rev. J. P. D. Lewis, Presbyterian, Seattle.

Might Be a Hint.
A stinging angler was fishing on a Scottish loch on a pouring wet day. He had been consulting himself from his flask and forgetting his gillie. Presently he asked the gillie if there was a dry place in the loch on which to strike a match. "You might try my throat," said the gillie. "It's dry enough."—Fishing Gazette.

That Cold Room

on the side of the house where winter blasts strike hardest always has a lower temperature than the rest of the house. There are times when it is necessary to raise the temperature quickly or to keep the temperature up for a long period. That can't be done by the regular method of heating without great trouble and overheating the rest of the house. The only reliable method of heating such a room alone by other means is to use a

PERFECTION
SMOKELESS
OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

which can be kept at full or low heat for a short or long time. Four quarts of oil will give a glowing heat for nine hours, without smoke or smell.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. Filler-cap does not screw on; but is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached by a chain and cannot get lost.

An automatic-locking flame spreader prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that it can be cleaned in an instant. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be uncured in an instant for cleaning. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental. Has a cool handle.

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 5
Providing an amendment to section 3 of article IV of the Constitution of the state of Wisconsin, relating to apportionment.
Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1907, an amendment to the Constitution of this State was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment was in the following language:
"Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That section 3 of article IV of the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be amended to read as follows:
"Section 3. At their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the Legislature shall apportion and district anew the members of the Senate and Assembly, according to the number of inhabitants, excluding Indians not taxed, soldiers, and officers of the United States Army and Navy."
Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be and the same is agreed to by this legislature.

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 7
To amend section 21 of article I of the constitution, relating to the compensation of members of the legislature.
Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1907 an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:
Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That section 21 of article I of the constitution be amended by striking out the word "three," being the twentieth word in the body thereof, and by inserting in lieu thereof the word "ten" so that the same when amended shall read as follows:
"Section 21. Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services for and during a regular session the sum of ten hundred dollars, and ten cents for every mile he shall travel in going to and returning from the place of meeting of the legislature on the most usual route. In case of an extra session of the legislature no additional compensation shall be allowed to any member thereof, either directly or indirectly, except for mileage, to be computed at the same rate as for a regular session. No stationery, newspapers, postage or other perquisites, except the salary and mileage above provided shall be received from the state by any member of the legislature for his services or in any other manner as such member; now therefore,
Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin, be and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature.

JOINT RESOLUTION.
To amend section 10 of article VIII of the Constitution, relating to internal improvements.
Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for 1907, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:
Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, that section 10 of article VIII of the constitution be amended by adding at the end of said section the following: "Provided that the state may appropriate moneys for the purpose of acquiring, preserving and developing the water power and the forests of the state; but there shall not be appropriated under the authority of this section in any one year an amount to exceed two-tenths of one mill of the taxable property of the state as determined by the last preceding state assessment."
Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be and the same is agreed to by this legislature.
Said election shall be held and conducted, votes canvassed, and returns made, in accordance with law.
Given under my hand and official seal at the court house in the city of Janesville, this 9th day of July, A. D. 1910.

CHAPTER IV.
THE 21st of June was a day of memorable triumph to me, a day of memorable events for Radville.

Only the evening previous Will Higelow and I had indulged in acrimonious argument in the office of the Higelow House, the subject of contention being the importance of the work to which I am devoting my declining years—to wit, the recording of the history of Radville township, Western county, in Pennsylvania, Will maintaining with that obstinacy for which he is famous that nothing ever had happened, does happen, can or will happen in our community, I insisting gently, but firmly, that it knows no day unmarked by important occurrences.

"THE MYSTERIOUS STRANGER."

ence (for it would become me, as the only literary man in Radville, to yield a point in dispute with the proprietor of the town tavern). Besides, he was wrong, even as I was indisputably right, only he had not the grace to admit it. We ended vulgarly

HER HAND AND ARM BURNED AND ITCHED

Could Hardly Sleep at Night for About 11 Months. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was Completely Cured.

"My mother had a red spot on her right hand which began to grow worse rapidly. The neighbors said it was a fever. She got some medicine from a doctor, but it did not do any good. In about a week the fever had begun to break out on her arm too. She used five or six different kinds of ointments and three different kinds of salves. Not one of them did her a particle of good. Her hand and arm could hardly sleep at night. Her hand was that way for about eleven months. Finally a friend of mine recommended Cuticura Ointment and Soap to me. She brought some immediately and began to use it. She washed her hand and arm with Cuticura Soap and then applied the ointment. The next morning we all noticed a great improvement. Before she had used a half of a box of Cuticura and a very little Soap her hand was well as ever. I think Cuticura Soap and Ointment is the greatest skin remedy ever discovered."—C. E. Canady, San Leandro, Cal., Mar. 7, 1910.

Cuticura Remedies afford the most successful treatment for eruptions of the skin and even of internal diseases and adults. A case of Cuticura Soap (25c) and a box of Cuticura Ointment (50c) are often sufficient to cure the worst cases of Eczema, Itch, Scald, Ringworm, Sore Throat, Boils, Pimples, etc. Cuticura is sold everywhere. For a full description of the treatment of skin and scalp diseases, see the book "The Treatment of Skin and Scalp Diseases," published by the Cuticura Remedies Co., New York, N. Y.

with a bet, Will wagering that the best five cent cigar in Radville in the Higelow House sample room that nothing worth mentioning would take place in Radville before sundown of the following day.

I left him, returning to my room at Miss Carpenter's (Will and I are old friends, but I refuse to eat the food he serves his guests, warned by the prospect of certain triumph if a little applied by the prospect of winning the stake and sympathizing a little with Will, who, for all his egregious stubbornness, has some excuse for upholding his unreasonable and ridiculous views.

At 5:45 the evening train lurched in, bearing the mysterious stranger. Tracey Tanner saw him first, having driven down to the station with his father's surrey on the off chance of picking up a quarter or so from some drummer wishing to be conveyed to the Higelow House. Only outlanders pay money for hacks in Radville. Everybody else walks, of course. Naturally Tracey took the mysterious stranger for a drummer. He had three trunks and a heavy packing box, so Tracey's misapprehension was pardonable. Instinctively he drove him to the Higelow House. Will now and again makes Tracey a present of a bottle of unsavory or lemon pop, with the result that Tracey calls him "Pop," who runs the opposition hotel, a scholastic and never takes strangers there except on their express desire. The mysterious stranger merely asked Tracey to drive him to the hotel. This is not like most commercial travelers, who, as a rule, know where they want to go, even in a strange town, having made inquiry in advance from their brothers of the road.

Will Higelow was dozing behind the desk, lulled by the sound of Will Nutt's voice in the barroom as he explained to all and sundry just how he had inadvertently permitted Watty the tailor to beat him at checkers that morning; otherwise the office was deserted. Tracey awakened Will by stamping heavily across the floor, and Will mechanically pushed down his spectacles and dipped a pen in ink, slowing the register round for the guest's signature. He says he knew at a glance that the mysterious stranger was no traveling man. But this is a moot point. Tracey's memory being infamously accurate and at variance with Will's assertion.

The mysterious stranger was a young man, rather severely clothed in a dark suit which excited no interest in Higelow's understanding, although I, when I saw him later, had no difficulty in realizing that it had never been made by a tailor whose place of business was more than five doors removed from Fifth avenue. He was tallish, but not really tall, and carried himself with a slight stoop which took away from his real height. Tracey says he had a way of looking at you as if he was smiling inside at some joke he'd heard a long time ago, and I don't know but that's a fairly apt description of his ordinary expression. He had a way, too, of nodding jerkily at you—just once—to show he recognized you or understood what you were driving at; at other times he carried his head a trifle to one side and slightly forward. He was a man you wouldn't forget, somehow, though what there was about him that was remarkable nobody seemed to know.

He nodded that jerky way in answer to Will Higelow's "Good-evening!" and without saying anything took the pen and started to register. He had to stop, however, for Tracey was pressing him so close upon the right that he couldn't get any play for his elbow, and after a minute or two he asked Tracey politely would he mind stepping round to the left, where he could see just as well. So Tracey did. Then he wrote his name in a good round hand, "Nathaniel Duncan, N. Y."

"I'd like a room with a bath," he told Will, "something simple and cheap, within the means of a man in moderate circumstances."

Will thought he was joking at first, but he didn't smile, so Will explained that there was a bathroom on the third floor at the end of the hall, though there wasn't much call for it. "I could give you a room next to that," he said, "but you wouldn't want it, I guess."

"Why not?" asked the mysterious stranger.

"Because," said Will, "it's next near the sample room."

"That doesn't make any difference. I'm on the wagon."

The only sense Will could get out of that was that the young man was traveling for a buggy house and hadn't brought any samples with him. "I thought," he allowed, "as how you'd be wanting a place to display your samples, but of course if you're in the wagon business."

"Oh," said Mr. Duncan, "I thought you meant the sample room over there." He nodded toward the bar. "That's what you call the dispensary of intoxicating liquors in this part of the country, is it not?"

Will made a noise resembling an affirmative and as soon as he got his breath explained that traveling men generally wanted a sort of a show room next to theirs and that that was called a sample room too.

"But I'm not a traveling man," said the mysterious stranger. "So I shall have as little use for the one as the other."

"Then the room on the third floor'll do for you," said Will. "How long do you calculate on staying?"

"That will depend," said Mr. Duncan, "on day or so, perhaps longer, until I can find comfortable and more permanent quarters."

In his amazement Will jabbed the pen so hard into the potato beside the ink well that he never could get the ink out and had to buy a new one.

"You don't mean to say you're thinking of coming here to live?" he gasped.

"Yes, I do," said the young man apologetically. "I don't think you'll find me in the way. I shall be very quiet and unobtrusive. I'm a student looking for a quiet place in which to pursue my studies."

"Well," said Will, "you've found it all right. There ain't no quieter place in Pennsylvania than Radville. Mr. Duncan, I hope you'll like it," he said, sarcastically.

"I shall endeavor to," said the young man. "And now may I go to my room, please? I should like to renovate my travel stained person to some extent before dinner."

"You'll have time," said Will. "Dinner's at noon tomorrow. I guess you're thinking about supper. That's ready now. Here, Tracey, you carry this gentleman's things up to No. 43."

I have never been able to understand how we failed to hear of it at Miss Carpenter's before 7 o'clock. That was the hour when, having finished supper and my first evening pipe, I started down town to the Citizen's office, intending to stop in at the Higelow House on the way and confound Will with the list of the day's happenings. Main street was pretty well crowded for that hour. I remembered nothing, and most of the townfolk were grouped together on the corners, underneath the lamps, discussing something rather excitedly. I paid no particular attention, realizing that between Cascar, Pete Willing, Roland Burnett's suit and the checker game they had enough to talk about. So it wasn't until I walked into the Higelow House office that I either heard or saw anything of the mysterious stranger.

Will Higelow was in his usual place behind the desk and looked, I thought, rather disgruntled. His reply to my "Good-evening!" sounded somewhat snappish. But he got out of his chair and moved round the end of the desk just as the young man came out of the dining room door. Then Will pulled up, and I realized that he was calling my attention to the stranger.

Will grabbed my arm without saying anything and pulled me into the bar.

"Hello!" I said as he went round behind and opened the cigar case. "What's up?"

He took out two boxes of the finest five-centers in town and placed them before me. "Them's up," he said. "You win. Have one."

It staggered me to have him give in that way. I had been looking forward to a long and diverting dispute. "I guess you've heard everything worth hearing about today's history," I said, disappointed, as I selected the least unpleasant looking of the cigars.

"No, I haven't," he said. "I didn't have to hear anything. What earned you that smoke took place right here in this office. Here," he said, striking a match for me.

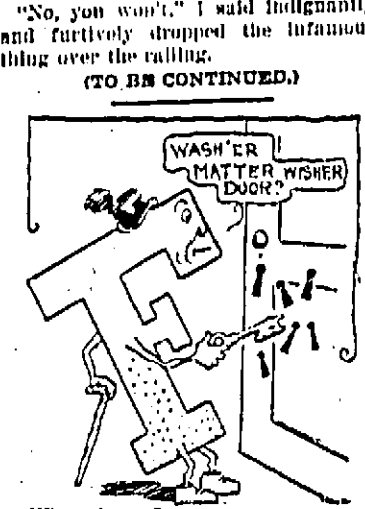

I had been trying to put the cigar away so that I might dispose of it without hurting Will's feelings, but he had me, so I recklessly poked the thing into the automatic clipper and then into my mouth. "What do you mean?" I asked, pulling.

"Come 'long outside," said Will, and we went out on the porch just in time to see Mr. Duncan going wearily upstairs to his room. "I mean," said Will, "him." And then he told me all about it.

"But things like that don't happen every day," he wound up defensively. "I'll go you another cigar on tomorrow."

"No, you won't," I said indignantly and futtily dropped the infamous thing over the railing.

The Delights In Baking With CALUMET BAKING POWDER

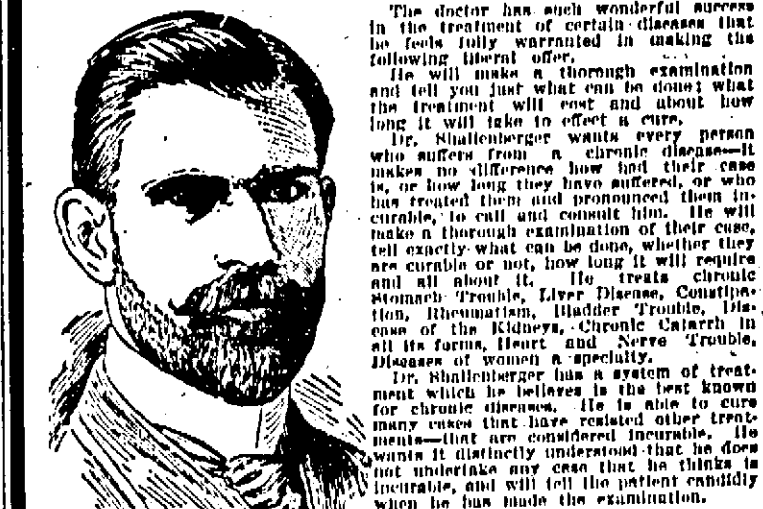

To fully appreciate the real pleasure of baking, buy a can of Calumet and use it in a test bake of biscuits. See how light and wonderfully tender they come from the oven. Then break one of them open and note how thoroughly, evenly and fluffily the dough has risen. And the final test—the one that counts—taste. This test will prove to you that Calumet is the most dependable baking powder for every purpose. It will prove its economy over the high-priced trade brands and its great superiority over the cheap and inferior Calumet. For Calumet is highest in quality—and moderate in cost. Received Highest Award World's Pure Food Exposition.

Want your business for three years from now? Will it be just what it is today with but a small increase in volume? Or will you make it a big live, bustling institution doing 50 per cent more business? Begin today to make improvements and to educate the public to the particular reasons why you should be patronized. The newspaper is the great public educator.

Most merchants who are big advertisers spend but 2% to 5% of the volume of their business for advertising. In Janesville but few merchants spend 2%, none spend 5%.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Oct. 13, 1870.

THE WAR, SIEGE OF PARIS.

London, Oct. 13.—The occupation of London by the Prussians is not yet confirmed, though it is certain that the French have fallen back along the west bank of the river. The Prussians are leaving Courmayeur and marching to Metz, leaving behind them a force of 800 Prussians and 500 Saxons already occupied Gisors. The Germans have also appeared at Mont Diller where a small detachment was defeated.

Our city council has decided on a recognition of the fire department of this city and has appointed a committee of five to report on an amendment to the charter for that purpose. We understand that the proposed reorganization is to consist in disbanding the present volunteer force and engaging a paid company of sufficient number of men to do the necessary work at fire. The purchase of horses to draw the steamers is also contemplated. A reform of this nature has long been needed and we are pleased to see that the city authorities are making a move towards its accomplishment.

At ten o'clock this forenoon the auditorium of the opera house and several rooms adjoining, were discovered to be filled with smoke. An alarm of fire was given to which the department responded promptly, and in a very few minutes the steamers were at work. About this time an investigation of the premises resulted in the discovery of a hole in the wall of one of the chimneys on the stage of the hall through which smoke from the stove below was pouring into the room. This was the extent of the fire, but people are easily scared, and such valuable property is in jeopardy.

NO DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, GAS OR ANY OTHER STOMACH DISTRESS

Relief in Five Minutes Awaits Every man or woman who suffers from a bad Stomach.

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diaphepsin occasionally. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves, without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour ridings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headache from stomach, nausea, bad breath, water brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable ailments. Should you be suffering now from any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes. If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Paper's Diaphepsin you can always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or sleepless nights or headaches or stomach misery all next day; and besides you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Paper's Diaphepsin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia. There is nothing better for Gas on the stomach or sourness from the stomach or to cure a Stomach Headache.

You couldn't keep a handkerchief or more useful article in the house.
